Introduction

The Centennial Industrial Park consists of 225 acres with 170 acres presently developable land lying in the northwest section of the City of Fort Wayne. The Centennial Industrial Park provides an opportunity to the City to assist in the development of an industrial park which is well planned and offers a prestigious environment for new and expanding firms. The Industrial Park is in an excellent location to take advantage of major transportation routes and facilities, e.g. U.S.33, Interstate 69, US 3, and Smith Airport. It is zoned R1 residential and M1 and M2 Industrial.

The Redevelopment Commission in the past has mainly concentrated its activity in the downtown area, but with increased demands on the public sector to assist in creating new job opportunities in the City, the Commission has taken a more comprehensive view at community and economic development. Plans and activities of the Commission must address problems, issues, and opportunities of the entire City and develop new concepts which:

- * Is based on current and potential strengths of the city;
- * Is reasonable and in accord with available resources;
- * Is sufficiently flexible to adapt to changing conditions;
- * Can be implemented immediately

The Centennial Industrial Park Urban Renewal Project is part of a development strategy that will enhance the City's economic and tax base, improve the aesthetics of the area, create jobs in the park as well as spin-offs within the rest of the city, provide a quality industrial park that will give new industry an attractive alternative and will put the City of Fort Wayne in a more competitive position to attract new industry.

It is the expectation of the Redevelopment Commission that the Centennial Industrial Park development will spur industrial prospects to the park and as a result development will occur and cause economic benefits to accrue to the City.

To do this, however, the Redevelopment Commission and the City of Fort Wayne must be prepared to provide the necessary public improvements to make the site ready to accept development. The method that will be used for funding these improvements without adding to the tax burden is through tax incremental financing. This tool is currently available only in Redevelopment areas and will be of the utmost importance in this project. By using the increment of increased tax revenues as a result of industrial expansion in the park, the City will be in a position to provide the necessary capital improvements to spur the future growth and development of the Centennial Industrial Park and the community as a whole.
